

We need to get better and faster at solving challenges

The current ways of working are not effective enough

Instead of working in silos

We need to work together

 Alkemio helps overcoming silos by connecting people and organizations to align efforts

Instead of struggling with partial solutions

We need one platform to facilitate it all

 Alkemio offers you communities, discussions, whiteboards, an innovation library, guidance, and much more

Instead of society depending on platforms with other interests

We need platforms we can fully trust

 Alkemio is designed for trust through steward ownership and by being fully open source

How it works for your Space

A systematic, effective and highly scalable way to make progress

1. Create a dedicated Space

For the challenge you care about, gather all stakeholders and resources in one Space. Define the current situation and what you want to achieve.

2. Build the community and expertise

Easily bring your existing community on board. Connect with new people and organizations that have relevant expertise and/or care about the same challenge.

3. Effectively make impact together

Gather and test ideas in a quick and structured way. Use the innovation library for knowledge and templates. Receive guidance from innovation consultants.
